WILLMS JOINS COUNSEL ON CALL'S GROWING E-DISCOVERY DIVISION

NASHVILLE, Tenn. | Barry Willms has joined Counsel On Call's E-Discovery Division as Senior Attorney + Discovery Process Architect, it was announced today.

Counsel On Call's E-Discovery Division has experienced significant growth in the last calendar year. In his role, Mr. Willms will design e-discovery review protocols, manage projects and teams of attorneys, and consult with clients regarding cost containment and efficiency throughout the discovery process, among other responsibilities. He will work closely with Richard Stout, Senior Attorney + Director of Counsel On Call's E-Discovery Division.

Mr. Willms spent the last 14 years managing discovery matters for King & Spalding LLP, in Atlanta, and Bass, Berry & Sims PLC in Nashville, respectively. He supervised and directed large teams of attorneys and consulted numerous clients on the tactical use of technology to improve quality control methodologies and results during e-discovery reviews. He has a proven ability to design efficient, repeatable e-discovery processes.

"We've known and respected Barry for many years and have always been impressed by his forward thinking and knowledge of the issues affecting the discovery process," said Stout. "Barry is the type of e-discovery expert that our clients seek for consultation, project oversight, developing and implementing processes, and managing quality control for reviews large and small. With his addition, our E-Discovery Division is stronger and better positioned for the continued growth we anticipate."

Mr. Willms will also provide regular commentary on Counsel On Call's blog, Lawdable (www.lawdable.com).
